Wendy Lam, CEO of Capsol Technologies, said: "As one of very few listed pure-play carbon capture companies globally, Capsol Technologies offers lower costs, reduced project risk and easier permitting for large CO2-emitters. We are experiencing accelerating demand for our technology in Europe and are now taking our highly scalable business model to North America – the world's largest carbon capture market. Our ambition is to build a globally leading carbon capture technology provider, and by listing on the main market of Euronext Oslo Børs we are making our value creation journey more accessible to international investors."
